Meet the Owner: Aquarius Cain

Aquarius Cain started Accelerated Learning Services in 2009. Her passion behind starting the business came from challenging experiences she encountered while working in the public school system as a science teacher. Ms. Cain states, "The politics and poor administration that I had to deal with wanted me to abandon integrity and academics to pass children when they didn't earn it. I lost my job when I refused to do so." After searching for a new job for several months, she was eventually hired by a tutoring company. Her first check was only $25. She knew her experience and knowledge were worth more and that she could help more children if she owned her own business, which is how Accelerated Learning Services began.

Ms. Cain started ASL with $0. Her initial clients were family and friends that she had chosen not to charge. She reached other clients by passing out fliers to local libraries, through social media, by word of mouth, and via email newsletters, among others.

Mrs. Cain found her way to The Edge Connection by attending a networking event where she met with two individuals that had gone through The Edge Connection's plan for profit course. During the event she talked with her two new connections about her marketing issues and her struggle to gain more clients. They stressed to her what great impact The Edge would have on her business.

My vision for Accelerated Learning Services is:

To be a franchise. I want Accelerated Learning Services to not only be national, but global. I want to be an international company providing academic and support services to students all over the world and allowing them to be successful, so they can pursue whatever dreams they have. I want Accelerated Learning Services to be known for providing personalized quality tutoring and skills that help students to be confident and become lifelong learners. I want people to see that what we do really makes an impact on a student's future, TODAY. We start with the future in mind.
