What is The Edge Connection?
The Edge Connection is a non-profit organization dedicated to alleviating poverty by promoting economic self-sufficiency through micro and small business development, targeting low-to-moderate-income women, minorities, and veterans. We have been honored to witness the personal and professional growth of our entrepreneurs as they take a simple idea, a dream, and turn it into a sustainable business.

Bridging the Gap for the Underserved
The Edge Connection was founded to bridge the gap for the underserved by providing comprehensive entrepreneurial training and support services; in turn creating jobs and economic growth in their communities. Rather than a handout, The Edge Connection offers a hand up, a way for micro and small business entrepreneurs to utilize their own unique strengths, interests, and talents to create jobs for themselves and for others.

Like all non-profits we rely not only on grants and paid employees to accomplish our mission, but also the unwavering support of volunteers and financial contributions from the community at large.

“Poverty has many faces, but few true solutions. Micro business development is a proven long-term poverty alleviation strategy that creates jobs, commerce, revenue, pride, and dignity.”
